Fifty Hours of LIVE Continuous Chamber Music!

"If music be the food of love, PLAY ON!" -Shakespeare

To celebrate St. Valentine's day, performers from the Broadway Symphony, the Seattle Chamber Singers, and the George Shangrow Chorale will be doing what they love best for fifty consecutive hours over the St. Valentine's holiday weekend - making chamber music!

We invite you to become an important part of this fundraising weekend by pledging your support. Make a pledge for an amount you would be willing to donate for every hour we play (our goal is fifty hours) and help us raise money for the BS/SCS and promote the joy of classical music.

You are also invited to come down to the Four Seasons Olympic Hotel over the weekend and listen as long as you like - the wee hours of the morning are especially fun! Friday and Saturday evenings we will be performing in the Georgian Room, so dinner reservations are required during those times (7:30-10:00 Friday & 6:30-10:00 Saturday). The grand finale will take place from 7:00-9:00pm on Sunday.

Sign up to pledge today!

The St. Valentine's Chamber Music Marathon is a fundraiser for the Broadway Symphony and Seattle Chamber Singers. Space is donated by the Four Seasons Olympic Hotel and promotional assistance is provided by Classic KING-FM 98.1. All proceeds go to BS/SCS, P.O. Box 4569, Seattle, WA 98104, a non-profit organization, and are tax-deductible.

BS/SCS is eligible for non-profit corporate matching funds. Please check with your employer to see if your gift can be matched.

The Composer Speaks: Huntley Beyer on "Romantic Lines"

Note: The Broadway Symphony will present a new work for orchestra by Seattle Composer, Huntley Beyer, on Sunday, January 28, 3:00 p.m. at Meyn Hall, with George Shangrow conducting. For tickets call 682-5208.

"I thought of that old joke. You know, this guy goes to a psychiatrist and says, 'Doc, my brother's crazy, he thinks he's a chicken,' and the doctor says, 'Well, why don't you turn him in?' and the guy says, 'I would but I need the eggs.' I guess that's pretty much now how I feel about relationships. You know, they're totally irrational and crazy and absurd but, uh, I guess we keep goin' through it because most of us need the eggs." (Annie Hall)

"Just lookin' at you hurts more." (Mel Gibson to Michelle Pfeiffer in Tequila Sunrise. They then go to bed.)

"I now pronounce you man and wife. Proceed with the execution." (Line at the end of African Queen).

"Nobody, not even the rain, has such small hands." (Hannah and Her Sisters).

These four movie quotes are the movement titles of my new piece, Symphony No. 4: Romantic Lines. The quotes illustrate the nature of relationships: The tone is intense but the hues are multifarious. The action is dramatic and passionate but the text shifts from mystery and poignancy (Annie Hall) to sexuality (Tequila Sun) to hilarity (African Queen) to sentimentality (Hannah and Her Sisters). If we are vulnerable to relationships, we find ourselves captured and dragged into these, our texts, opened up in front of our own impish, erotic, funny, terrified, sentimental, longing selves. And these selves emerge out of and in response to each other; sadness yields to longing, confidences to comedy to poignancy, vulnerability to desire. I particularly like how various shades of beauty and desire will emerge out of darker tones, as if they can't be repressed, or as if they're arrived at.

All these thoughts are the impulse of Romantic lines. In the composition of Symphony No. 4 I have been musing upon the emotional moves and contrasts suggested by these 'romantic lines' from the movies. The compositional impulse underlies the content of the music, but finally is not its content. Music is too specific for words, too dense for concepts, too sense-sensational for abstract peregrinations. The movie quotes are signposts only. The destination is the piece, located ahead, on January 28, in the Twilight Zone.

Huntley Beyer, composer, lives in Seattle, and received his musical training at Williams College and the University of Washington (DMA). A recipient of numerous grants and awards, his compositions have been performed by the Broadway Symphony, the Kronos Quartet, the George Shangrow Chorale, in the U.S. and in Europe.
